3.2 Experiences

Responsibilities and Duties	Anaesthesia General Anaesthesia: There is very little anaesthesia left, I cannot handle. For the past decades my main job has been anaesthesia for various operations, such as: large abdominal-, endocrine-, trauma-, orthopaedic-, urologic-, dermatologic, plastic surgery. Further I do endoscopic and radiologic diagnosis and therapies, as far as anaesthesia is needed. There is no favourite anaesthesiologic pathway, I do balanced anaesthesia as well as TIVA. Regional anaesthesia: We do RA by nerve stimulation as well as ultrasound guided, including SPA, PDA (median and paramedian, lumbar and thoracic) and all widely used nerve blocks. Obstetric and gynecological anaesthesiologic treatment, for example obstetric PDA's, median and paramedian technic included I have done for the past 30 years. Emergency Medicine For the last 30 years of my career, a main field of work besides anaesthesia has been: Preclinical emergency medicine, leading an emergency ambulance base for about 15 years (Medical Chief of Emergency Base Voitsberg, Austria). We do handle all kinds of internal as well as traumatological emergency cases. So far I have done more than 2000 preclinical emergency missions. Working in a large European medical centre (Graz) I got used to emergency room workflows. Disaster Medicine Having done quite some courses and practise concerning disaster medicine my employers gave me jobs like disaster managing &amp; training. For example, I had to manage some major accidents including bus-accidents on highways. For KAGES – the Styrian hospital management – I made quite some editions of emergency plans for regional hospitals. Lately I have been chief of the triage unit during the COVID-19 crisis in Oberndorf/Salzburg/Austria. Intensive Care Medicine My intensive care experiences have been trained in various ICU's. There are very nice memories to the ICU for internal medicine at Medical University of Graz. The current ICU of the Hospital of Spittal has got 6 ICU beds and 2 IMCU beds. I'm familiar with most of the intensive care procedures. There is very little equipment left, which I'm not familiar with. Nevertheless, I'm always looking forward to filling up missing links and keep up with my young colleges.
